The Purcell Major Organ by David Leach

The Purcell Major organ is based on a single rank of Gedackt pipes. The four stops are derived from the single Gedeckt rank (electric action) and provide a very acceptable chorus. Stable and easy to tune, the instrument is finding great success in academic, chapel and ensemble settings, and is suitable for all forms of music, from continuo to concerti.

Case of Walnut (veneer) with keyboard of Rosewood/Sycamore, attached casters.
